Dear parents/carers and students

We are clearly living in unprecedented times, life has taken an expected turn and we will certainly look back on recent events with a mixture of both good and bad memories. We will be forever remembered as the people who experienced 'lockdown'. You could even say that we are living through a modern history.

With the above in mind, wouldn't it be a good idea to create a 'time capsule' which documents our experiences and memories of our lives in lockdown? We would like your help to make a JPC 'Lockdown Legacy' capsule.

- Perhaps you have really enjoyed lockdown and used the extra time to learn a new hobby? Maybe you could put something in the capsule relating to your newfound skill.
- Perhaps you have used the time to read a good book? Maybe you could write a book review and donate it to the capsule.
- Perhaps you have used this time to be creative? Maybe you could donate an item or drawing you have created, or a photograph of your creativity.

The possibilities are endless!

We realise that not everyone has had a positive experience of lockdown. Maybe you could use this experience in a positive way to educate future generations about how you coped and inspire them to cope in their own difficult times.

At JPC we are a community, we each have a different view of lockdown and we would love to create a Lockdown Legacy capsule that will allow us look back on these unparalleled times, in a realistic, yet positive way. We plan to use this capsule in the future, 5 years from now, maybe 50 years from now! The capsule will allow us to document this historic event in a real-life manner.

Please donate small items/letters/notes/photos that have a significant meaning to the recent events of your life to the school office, in a safe and socially-distanced way. We look forward to your donations, we encourage any members of the school community; students, staff, parents, governors to give this some thought, and make a donation within the next few weeks. Please be aware that any donations will not be private, and will be regarded as a permanent donation to History lessons of the future.

We look forward to your help with this!

Mr P Balfour
